While we have no effort of interest in the nature of things, we cannot give. Let your interest in your local affairs and in the town and in the making of the Gazette more bright and new.

WEYMOUTH, MASS., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

FRIDAY, JUNE 9, 1899.

Times.

It has been suggested that the sign-boards now doing service on some of the streets in town, were to be replaced with new and more attractive ones, the appearance of said streets would be greatly improved, and visitors would carry away with them a much higher opinion of the town. The attention of the writer was recently called to a sign in position at the head of one of the principal streets of the town. The sign had originally done duty as a "private way" and when it was transferred to its present location, the board was inverted and the name of the street pointed out the original inscription. No efforts having been made to remove the latter this ingenious (?) arrangement makes it somewhat difficult for a stranger to ascertain just where he is at. Again, the signpost near the fountain in Washington square has been bent for a long time and while it is transferred to its present location, it is but a small matter to straighten it, the job has never been done. We hope that these apparently small matters will receive prompt attention, as they certainly do not convey the correct impression as to the condition of the town.

Change of Location in Publishing.

The weekly South papers published by Miss Floretta Waing and David Matthews of Hull, and which have been printed for them in the past, will, beginning with this week's issue, be printed by the New England Newspaper Union of Boston. We are sorry that they have decided to change to the ready-print inside system and regret the consequent severance of our pleasant weekly associations with the publishers. Mr. Matthews is a young man who has won our esteem as a bright, honest, faithful newspaper man, hard-working in the interests of the town that he covers and always true to his convictions of duty. We will miss his contributions to our paper, but we will miss his publications and the editors personally the greatest success in their efforts to establish leading newspapers in their section.

It has been customary for their correspondents and advertisers to send matters for their papers directly to us. We would ask all such to send in the future to the publishers at Hull, Mass., to save delay, and that we would willingly forward any communications sent to us, until their customers become generally informed of the change.

One of the Leaders.

There is another question besides that of who shall be speaker of the next house. That is, who will be leader on the floor. Among the men who will come near being a leader, if he should be returned, is Representative Martin E. Hawes of Weymouth. He has a large following of friends, is one of the most ready and forcible debaters in the House, and in the two years he has been there he has kept a careful watch over measures and is looked to as being a good advocate of economic and expeditious legislation—Boston Journal.

High School Notes.

During these hot days gymnastics are being omitted.

Next Friday, the last Friday of this school year, the junior class will give the following program: Class history, Miss Moran, Miss Nolan. "A Literary Nightingale," Miss Logan. "An Appeal to the People," Mr. Thomas. "Ah, Yes! Christmas," Mr. Smith. "A Fool's Prayer," Miss Tracy.

The Boston University examinations did not arrive until late yesterday and consequently those scheduled for that day were not finished. These examinations continue for the rest of the week, including Saturday. An unusually large number are at work, some taking the preliminaries and some the finals.

Quarterly Meeting.

The quarterly meeting of the Norfolk County W. C. T. U. will be held in the Pilgrim Church, North Weymouth, next Tuesday, June 13. The following is the program of the day:

10.00. Devotional service.
Greetings, Miss Mary K. Thomas.

GRAND CONCERT.

Sully's Orchestra Plays Before a Large Audience.

Interesting and Elaborate Programme Furnished.

Prominent among the musical events of this season, stands the concert given at the Baptist church Tuesday evening, under the management of Sully's Orchestra.

The management had spared neither trouble nor expense to secure the services of the most talented artists possible, with the result that those who attended the concert were given a rare musical treat.

Notwithstanding the extreme heat, an audience of nearly five hundred was present and manifested its hearty appreciation by generous and enthusiastic applause.

The orchestra was assisted by the following artists: Mr. U. S. Kerr, Boston, baritone soloist; Mr. Arthur M. Raymond, East Weymouth, organist and accompanist; Mrs. Eva L. Baker, Weymouth, soprano soloist; and Miss Mabel Simmons, Kingston, reader. The following elaborate program was furnished:

—Orchestra, (a) Boston Letter Carriers' March, (b) Bridal Rose Overture, (c) Gavotte, (d) Minuet, (e) Scherzo, (f) U. S. Kerr.

—Organ solo, Vesper Hymn, (S. B. Whitney), Arthur M. Raymond.

—Reading, His Own Obituary, Mabel Simmons.

—Cornet solo, Russian Fantasia, (Levy), G. A. White.

—Soprano solo, Love Adagio, (John), Jordan, Mrs. Eva L. Baker.

—Orchestra, Ein Waldein, (Waltzes), (Wiegand).

—Baritone solo, Tormentor Love Song, (Conchelos), U. S. Kerr.

—Chorus solo, Eighth Air Variations, (Brent), A. W. Rogers.

—Reading, selected, Mabel Simmons.

—Soprano solo, "Fiddle and Lute" violin obligato, (Goswami), Mrs. Eva L. Baker.

—Orchestra, Lullaby, (Lullaby), (Keller), Bala, (U. S. Kerr).

Mr. Kerr has appeared before Weymouth audiences upon several previous occasions this season and has proved a great favorite. He possesses a sweet, full baritone voice, and his solos took the audience by storm. His first solo, "Amor," by Schubert, seemed to be the favorite with many, while others seemed to prefer the "Tormentor Love Song" by Conchelos.

Miss Simmons, the reader, is from Kingston, and made her first appearance before a Weymouth audience at the fair held at the church of the Sacred Heart in April, upon which occasion she received most favorable impression, and Tuesday evening her appearance was the sign for great applause. Her first number, "His Own Obituary," was rendered in a manner that completely captivated the audience. Miss Simmons is a reader of marked ability; her presence is attractive and graceful. All of her selections were rendered in a most artistic manner, but especially fine was her reading with musical accompaniment. She was obliged to respond to queries repeatedly.

Mr. Raymond, the organist and accompanist, is a local favorite, and it suffices to say that his numbers upon this event were rendered in his usual finished manner. His rendering of "La Semiramide" by Rossini deserves special mention.

Mr. Baker's solo was a soprano soloist, too well known to require any comments in this paper. It is enough to say that upon this occasion her selections were rendered in a manner that showed much artistic skill. Her first solo, "Fiddle and Lute," by Goswami, was rendered with much enthusiasm. Pleading features of the program were the cornet solo by George A. White and the clarinet solo by A. W. Rogers, both of whom are members of the orchestra, and both of whom were obliged to respond to queries repeatedly.

Sully's Orchestra made its first appearance before the public upon the occasion of the eighth anniversary of the Weymouth Assembly No. 8, P. T. A., which was held at the Lythian hall the evening of April 20th, and immediately sprang into popular favor. It consists of nine pieces and its selections are rendered in a most pleasing and artistic manner.

Mrs. F. A. Sully acts as accompanist for the orchestra and to her is due much credit for the success of the affair.

The others were: Charles Gifford, Oliver Tinkham, Fred Thayer, John Hunt and Charles Wilby.

Hawes Shaw.

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mrs. Myra Shaw on Washington street last Wednesday evening, the wedding parties being: Miss Shaw, Miss Logan. "An Appeal to the People," Mr. Thomas. "Ah, Yes! Christmas," Mr. Smith. "A Fool's Prayer," Miss Tracy.

The Boston University examinations did not arrive until late yesterday and consequently those scheduled for that day were not finished. These examinations continue for the rest of the week, including Saturday. An unusually large number are at work, some taking the preliminaries and some the finals.

EAST WEYMOUTH SHAKEN UP.

Narrow Escape From Serious Loss of Life.

The citizens of East Weymouth were startled Saturday noon by the report of an explosion, which shook nearly every building in the village.

Following the explosion came an alarm from Box 23, at Jackson square and in a moment everybody was excited and everything in a tumult.

The cause of all the excitement was the explosion of the 200 horse power boiler at the wooden mill. For some weeks past owing to a scarcity of water, the plant has been running under steam and the boilers have been forced hard.

Engineer Stevens being sick, the engine room was in charge of Engineer Ellis Gay. The explosion occurred at 12:17, just at a time when the employees of the mill were at dinner.

Engineer Gay was away from the engine room at the time and he states that when he left the boiler had water enough, the fire was tanked and only 40 lbs. of steam was on.

In the main building were some 75 men eating their dinner, but they escaped injury as the explosion seemed to spend itself in the opposite direction.

The boiler house, was completely wrecked, a portion of a store house was knocked in and a part of the main mill somewhat damaged.

A brick chimney 75 feet in height came down and bricks, wood, iron, and other debris was scattered all about the plant and for some distance away.

Mrs. Frank McGuire who lives quite a distance from the scene of the explosion, was hit by a flying brick and several of her stables were taken in her wounds, which were principally about the head. She is the only person known to have been injured by the accident.

The accident to the mill will probably forever remain an accident to mystery as inspectors fail to locate the difficulty and attach no blame to Mr. Gay, the engineer in charge.

The accident came at an unfortunate time as a large lot of wood in the storehouse and is in immediate danger. The work of clearing away the wreck has been pushed night and day and the mill will be started up again as soon as possible.

Mrs. WALDO TURNER DEAD.

Passes Away at her Home on Raymond Street After a Lingering Illness.

Mrs. Waldo Turner, a most estimable and highly respected resident of this village, passed away Friday at her home on Raymond street after a severe illness of many weeks, aged 54 years.

The deceased was the wife of Mr. Waldo Turner of this village and a well-known business man of the town. She was beloved by a large circle of friends and acquaintances and was always interested in all matters pertaining to the First W. C. T. U. church and works of a charitable nature.

She was a member of the First M. E. church and the Reynolds Relief Corps for 102 years.

Funeral services were held at her late home on Raymond street, Friday, June 9, at 2 o'clock. The services were conducted by the Rev. W. C. T. U. church and were attended by a large number of friends and relatives.

The remains were conveyed to Fairmount cemetery, but the interment did not take place until just as the sun was setting, his last lingering rays and long shadows stretched across the fields.

A husband and two children, Lillian Turner of Worcester and Mrs. John McIsaac of this village, are left to mourn her loss.

OBITUARY.

Little Ida Brown.

The community was shocked to hear on Sunday morning of the death of the only daughter of Parker Brown, the expressman, had died from pneumonia.

Little Ida was taken ill on Tuesday. Pneumonia developed rapidly and although kind care and skillful attention was ever ready, all was availed not, and Sunday morning the sharp struggle was over and the sweet child was at rest.

The family have the sympathy of all in their grievous affliction. Father, mother and three brothers mourn the loss of a wise, affectionate, loving child, a bright, affectionate sister.

The funeral was held on Wednesday, June 8, at 10 o'clock, at the home of the deceased, Rev. F. A. Baker of the Methodist Episcopal Church officiated. Beautiful flowers and tender words seemed all too good to express the loving thought of sympathizing friends.

It is seldom that a little child is struck down by ill disease and the home is indeed vacant but we feel that the Heavenly home is opened wide to receive one of these little ones, of whom the Saviour said: "Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of Heaven." Many of her child friends looked upon the frail, beautiful form and lovely face when prepared for its final resting place. They will miss a little life playmate.

When the signal is given at 7.30 there will be no session of the High school.

FIELD DAY.

Class of '99 Carries off all the Honors.

Last Saturday afternoon was an ideal day for our annual field day. The meeting of the Weymouth High School which was held at the fair grounds was quite interesting and well attended. It may be noticed that some of the records made are exceedingly low but that is due to the majority of the contestants entering several events and not by their inability.

For this reason the finish of the races was the only exciting part, while in the jumping events the contestants seemed to be troubled by "that tired feeling."

In the first heat of the 1-mile bicycle race, Hall was thrown from his wheel, otherwise he might have secured a place for the finals. In the second heat, Moore was thrown, badly wrenching his wheel, so that he was forced to ride a strange one in the 5-mile race, but even then he finished last.

One of the men came up to Station Agent Todd before the 5:42 train for Boston arrived, and engaged him in conversation. While this was going on, a second man showed up and before anybody discovered it, had got into the ticket office and secured all the tickets in the drawer. About $200 in change was left.

McCure's Magazine for July.

McCure's Magazine for July opens with a very complete and instructive account of the automobile as it is seen today, no longer a matter of mere promise or experiment, but one of practical, constant use. The article explains what it is, how it works, and why it is so popular. It also tells of the latest developments, and the future of the machine. The magazine is a must for all who are interested in the automobile.

Another article that gives information of very extraordinary interest is Professor Simon Newcomb's account of the tremendous problems that just now press upon astronomers for solution. This article is illustrated from some of the most remarkable of the recent telescopic photographs, especially of the Milky Way, showing clearly stars that the human eye, even with the aid of the strongest telescope, has never seen.

A biographical sketch of Rudyard Kipling by his friend Professor Charles Eliot Norton, the only authorized account of Kipling's life, is a most interesting and valuable contribution.

And yet another is Mr. W. A. Fraser's account of the "Soldier Policy of the Canadian Northwest," illustrating very fully their exceptional skill, faithfulness, hardiness, and bravery. Mrs. Rachel's account of "Lincoln's Great Victory in 1864" supplies new illustration of the immense hold that Lincoln secured by his wisdom, showmanship, kindness, and honesty, on the faith and affection of the people; and shows that if our country's peril is a real one, it is a story that gives great ground for the belief that our country's peril is a real one.

There is a generous portion of strong, wholesome and varied entertainment in the number contributed by William Allen White, Stephen Crane, W. A. Fraser, Booth Tarkenton, and J. H. Crismon. The latter a writer who makes his first appearance, and makes a story that gives great ground for the belief that our country's peril is a real one.

The only thoughts to which our doors are always open are those which do not wish to entertain.

Tears are as superficial as laughter. The great movements of the mind are strange to tears.

The great trouble with life seems to be that a man wants so many things before he wants to go to his own funeral.

Beautiful stupidity should be careful to remain young; it is only the airy-minded life that laughs at age.

Living Life Over Again.

The argumentative and speculative public, having wearied after many years of discussing the question, "Is Life Worth Living?" has taken up the more practical question, "If a man could live his life over again, would it be an advantage to him?" It would seem that this second question is settled by the conclusion arrived at by the individual himself. The first question is a question of fact, and the second is a question of opinion. The first question is a question of fact, and the second is a question of opinion.

The first question is a question of fact, and the second is a question of opinion. The first question is a question of fact, and the second is a question of opinion.
